ALGEBRA

It is quite a well known fact that Miss Miller teaches Algebra to us hard working ninth graders. All of you eighth graders who got A's or B's on your preparatory Algebra tests don't get any ideas. By the end of six weeks you'll be doing college Algebra. This exciting class is held in room 24. As you know, you should never get in bad with Miss Miller such as Bill Nelson has done this year. Hey you eighth graders ..... try this, it's easy.

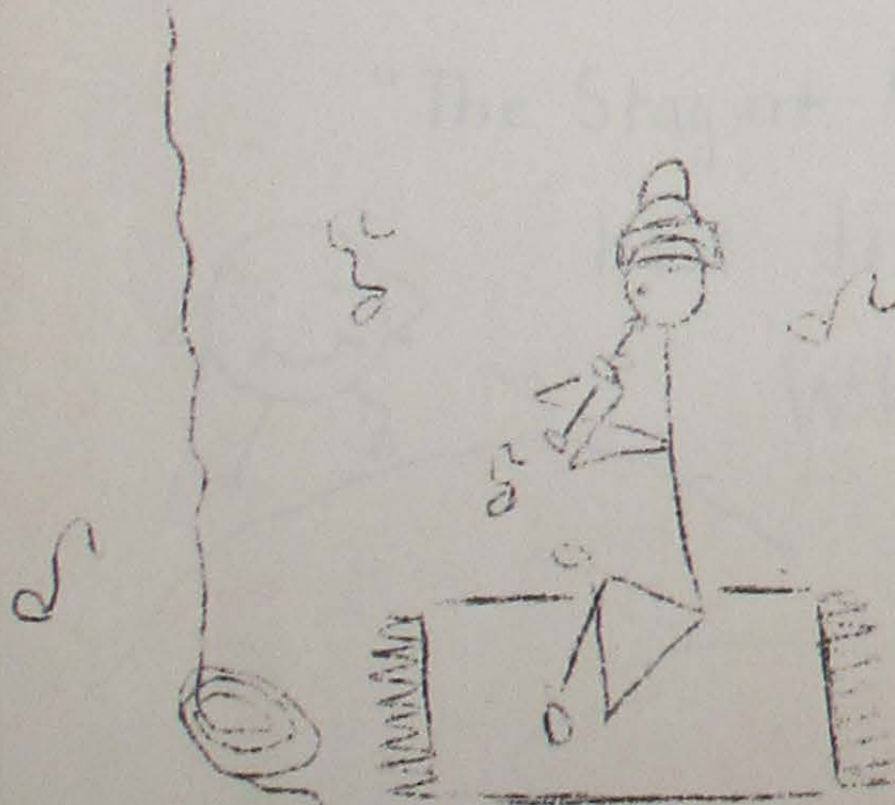

$$\frac{x^1 2/50 - xy^7}{x^8 - (xyz)^3} = \frac{(x^2 z^5)^2 (b/p)}{(x^2 y^3)^5 (p^3)^3}$$

Mummy!

CIVICS

The 2nd, 3rd, and 4th periods find large groups of morally confused 9th graders in Mrs. Schramper's civic's class. With glee all students reach for their notebook and ten sharpened pencils, poised for a few notes to set the class off in a good start. Eager minds lap up the latest Mung Dynasty scandals. Little do they they doubt these are well documented. Mrs. Schramper has probably read all the mistery books since who knows when, and her students have read at least half that many. In the typical Welch tradition (homework is the way to success - you've got to give of yourself) a full 2 minutes are allotted for heated study.

ENGLISH

During the 1st, 2nd, and 4th periods of the day you are likely to see the 9th grade students hurrying to either Miss VerHoef's or Miss Versteeg's English class. The students are frequently seen either madly reading the last few chapters of their books for reports or looking up the name of Ellen's latest flame in the "Lady of the Lake" book. These periods of the day are spent learning the basic English language which every student needs to know in order to talk intelligently with his friends and teachers. Each student has a notebook which is generally used to copy the English dictation, an absolute necessity in daily work. During the course of the period the Latin students usually find themselves writing Latin for English, which frustrates them no end. The teachers, however, are very understanding when they come to a theme with the word "et" for and, or "aut" for or. During the course of the year we cover material from themes and sentence structure to verb tenses. The big event of the year comes with the reading of the "Lady of the Lake," a long narrative poem. To everyone's surprise the poem was very interesting and not at all as bad as was thought.

"The Stag at Eve

had drunk his fill,

Where danced the moon

on Monan's Bill."

LATIN

If you want to know what goes on in Latin, notice the attitude of 9th graders entering the Latin room at the beginning of the 1st and 3rd periods. If you see them sprinting full blast, you know that a test is about to be given. If they seem a little on the nervous and edgy side, then translations for grades are the theme of the day. On the other hand, if they seem comparatively relaxed and at ease, drill work or some other such trivial assignment is the order of the day. Although this seems a rather unnerving way to spend one's life, we remain loyal to Miss Versteeg. When she tells us to groan, we groan. When she tells us to swallow, the gum is swallowed immediately. Characteristic of Miss Versteeg is her manner of knowing who the people were who didn't translate the story. This is one of the unfortunate phases of Latin. Another is the two to three hours of homework assigned every night. By George, that's nothing to laugh at. At any rate, the motto of our class is "quid me vexeri" - "What me worry?" A little poem sums up the situation very nicely.

Latin is a dead language,
As dead as it can be.
Once it killed the Romans,
And now it's killing me.

BOYS' SCIENCE

If a foul odor, smoke, or other such annoyances proceed from room 25 during the 5th or 6th periods on Tuesday or Thursday you know that Mr. Ritland and company are carrying out some ill-fated experiment. This, however, is preceded either by a pop quiz or else a lecture aimed at those boys who failed to do the assigned notebook work. We then settle down to energetically discuss the material concerning the assignment for the day. Contrary to the popular belief of the people who wrote the yearbook last year, Mr. Ritland does not introduce movies by accidentally saying, "Now, boys, we are going to have a strip film ---er--- I mean a film strip." As we boys labor diligently discussing and writing about questions in preparation for the test over the unit, I am certain there are times when everyone wonders what goes on in the girls' science class.

GIRLS' SCIENCE

Every Monday and Wednesday during fifth and sixth periods you are likely to see the ninth grade girls strolling into Mr. Ritland's room for Science. All the girls pay particular attention to the scribblings--er, I mean formulas that Mr. Ritland is so kind as to demonstrate on the board. The girls who don't fall asleep or freeze to death during the discussion usually are slipping notes around the room. But Mr. Ritland is always able to gather a few bits of information about radios or the Defense Department's latest atomic project from his star pupil, Tove Frang. We girls are always willing to try new experiments, such as getting shocked by an electric generator. But we must give Mr. Ritland credit for teaching us something. After all, it's kind of nice to know how a telephone operates when you've calling your boy friend.

GENERAL BUSINESS

General Business class is taught by that calm, quiet little fellow, Lyle Fitzgerald. The homework is short and easy, but -- Caution! The tests are real Duzers!

We study the many (too many) types of businesses and organizations in the United States. Our main topics are Income Tax, Insurance and Arson. Mr. Fitzgerald always adds a bit of enrichment toward each topic, such as experience with income tax evasion. Another topic is Banking and Accounting. Under this we studied the banking system in general, opening accounts, checking accounts, the check system, and forgery.

If you take this course, be ready to cut out newspaper clippings and make reports by the dozen. Also be ready to forget to bring them to class almost every morning. But don't let this scare you -- it's a good class anyway.

HOME ECONOMICS

The 9th grade girls who didn't take Latin, General Business, or Shop are the lucky girls who decided to take Home Economics. Under Miss Selby they learned to bake bread, put in sleeves, and take temperatures. This isn't all, though. The 12 girls in this class gave a big lunch in January to which they invited guests, visited the meat department at Hy-Vee, and went to the University Hospital (just to visit). At different times of the year girls could be seen struggling out of the Home Ec. room bearing jars of peaches, bread that forgot to rise, and half-finished housecoats.

We all think that Miss Selby and the various student teachers through the year did a good job of teaching them these things. They certainly were brave to tackle that bunch of girls in the first place.

SHOP

As we all know, shop is taught by Mr. Van Winkle. Actually, we suspect shop is a laboratory for dexterity to help Mr. Van Winkle pick his athletic teams. We would have hopped right into the more advanced techniques, but we found that a few weeks' time to review was needed, as we had gotten a little rusty on mechanical drawing over the summer vacation. However, we soon got through the entire last year's course and sped on into some really technical stuff, like drawing cabinets. The next nine weeks we made a metal garden trowel for summer vacation workouts and a plastic letter opener for gangfights. The 3rd nine weeks we made jack plane knobs and got to exercise our now highly developed sense of choice on a free-choice woodturning and a free-choice woodworking project. The last 9 weeks we really went wild and got to go anywhere we wanted to in the shop, just like big people. I guess now we're ready for high school!

STUDY HALL

One half of the ninth grade goes to study hall during 5th period and one half during 6th period. Study hall may be regarded as a regular class, especially since 10 page reports are not at all uncommon. Mr. Trunnell picks on the girls, while Mrs. Romberg and Miss Vandelaar pick on students in general. But study hall isn't nearly as deadly as it sounds. Everyone is allowed to laugh and make a little noise once in awhile. Each student is even allowed as much as 4 minutes of speaking privileges each period. In all, study hall is actually a very peaceful and refreshing place; and the hardier students even manage to catch 40 winks once in a while.

SHOP

As we all know, shop is taught by Mr. Van Winkle. Actually, we suspect shop is a laboratory for dexterity to help Mr. Van Winkle pick his athletic teams. We would have hoped right into the more advanced techniques, but we found that a few weeks' time to review was needed, as we had gotten a little rusty on mechanical drawing over the summer vacation. However, we soon got through the entire last year's course and sped on into some really technical stuff, like drawing cabinets. The next nine weeks we made a metal garden trowel for summer vacation work and a plastic letter opener for gangbusters. The 3rd nine weeks we made jack plane knobs and got to exercise our now highly developed sense of choice on a free-choice woodturning and a free-choice woodworking project. The last 2 weeks we really went wild and got to go anywhere we wanted to in the shop, just like big people. I guess now we're ready for high school!

STUDY HALL

One half of the ninth grade goes to study hall during 5th period and one half during 6th period. Study hall may be regarded as a regular class, especially since 10 page reports are not at all uncommon. Mr. Trunnell picks on the girls, while Mrs. Bomberg and Miss Vandenberg pick on students in general. But study hall isn't nearly as deadly as it sounds. In all, study hall is actually a very peaceful and refreshing place; and the harder students even manage to catch 40 winks once in a while.

BOYS' PHYSICAL EDUCATION

There are 36 boys in ninth grade fulltime at Welch. Each one of them is in one of two classes during fifth and sixth period. Mr. Fitzgerald has charge of the classes. He instructs, referees, and participates in the various activities.

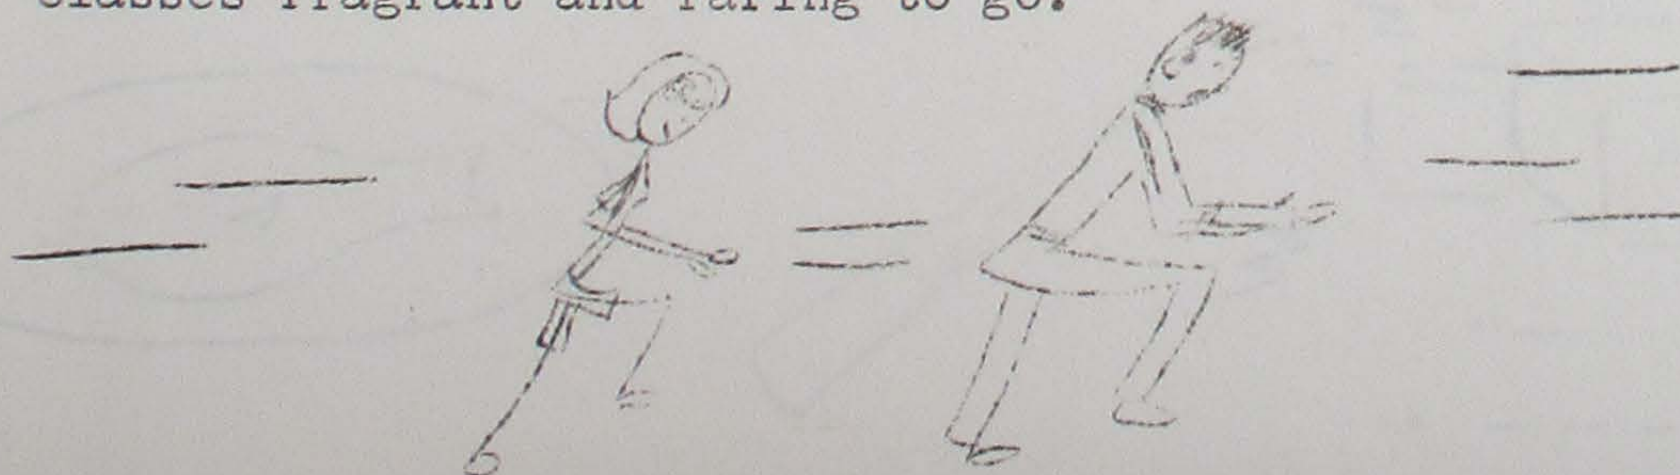

During the time when we can be outdoors, we play flag football, soccer, and softball. When we must be indoors, we play basketball and work on basketball skills. Each class has two teams. The captains this year are Butch Michelson and Jim Trow in the fifth period and Tom Grabau and Phil Scholl in the sixth period. The teams are evenly matched, and each team has about the same won-lost record.

Of course there are problems also. The main one is getting upstairs on time. The bell always rings as Curt Siemers is emerging from the shower. This explains why Curt is frequently seen trying to button his shirt on his way to class.

GIRLS' PHYSICAL EDUCATION

During the fifth and sixth periods on Tuesdays and Thursdays all the ninth grade girls go bouncing down to their lively P.E. class. After being led by Miss Ver Hoef through strenuous calisthenics, such trying games as ring tennis, basket ball, pull tail football, and jump rope are attempted. After the shower bell rings the "pupils" try their best to get out of taking showers, and after lousing this up, return to their classes fragrant and raring to go.

GIRL RESERVES

Our Girl Reserves program at Welch is sponsored by Miss Carey and Miss Vandelaar. Meetings are held every other Friday at 8:30 in the gym for the 7th, 8th, and 9th grade girls. Our programs include talks given by members of Girl Reserves, teachers, and others. Along with the Hi-Y, we sponsor the yearly Box Social and the Christmas Drive. At the beginning of the year we have a Mother-Daughter Tea at which the 7th graders and other new members are initiated. At the end of the year we have the Big Pal-Little Pal picnic to welcome the next year's 7th graders and say good-bye to the outgoing 9th graders.

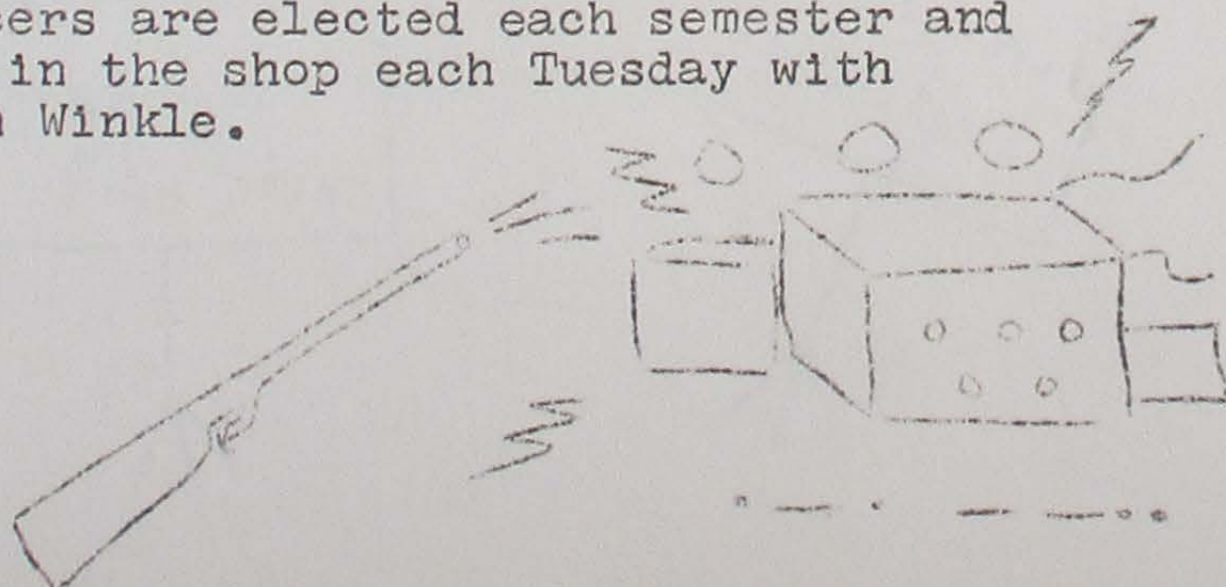

Of course, we couldn't get along without our President, Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer, Piano Player, and Song Leader. They are elected each semester and initiated in a blaze of glory (?). This initiation usually proves to be the hardest part of holding the office. Every other Friday these officers meet together in Miss Carey's room, for the purpose of keeping our Girl Reserves a well-run organization.

HI-Y

The 7th, 8th, and 9th grade boys meet every other Wednesday morning at 8:30 in the gym for a half hour of refreshing talks on a wide variety of subjects. Besides the fact that these talks are interesting, the complete lack of girls for 30 minutes is kind of nice. We have heard about ice fishing, hunting, and ham radio.

The six offices are President, Vice-President, Treasurer, Secretary, Program Chairman, and Activity Chairman. These officers are elected each semester and hold cabinet meetings in the shop each Tuesday with their sponsor, Mr. Van Winkle.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Every other Tuesday at 8:30 in the morning twenty students and two teachers are observed walking slowly to room 6. This can be no other than the student council. The two teachers are Miss Miller and Mr. Ritland, and they dictate---er---that is aid the functions of the council. To allow concentration on certain area, the student council is subdivided into three groups. These are the assembly committee, headed by Miss Martinson; the grounds committee, headed by Mr. Ritland; and the building committee, with Miss Miller at the helm. The job of these committees is to carry out the functions that their name implies. The council consists of the president and representatives from each home room. They are here to represent the respective homeroom's interests in the decisions that are made by the council. These include whether or not to have "dress up day", the planning of Christmas and the annual drive for some worthy cause, and decisions concerning the programs of the committees, etc. A president is elected for each semester to preside over meetings. Tom Grabau filled this post during the first semester; Bernard (Butch) Michelson, the second. All in all much is accomplished by the council. Usually.

ATHLETIC CLUB

Athletic Club, sponsored by Mr. Van Winkle, is for the 7th, 8th, and 9th grade boys who are participating in sports. It's held every alternate Wednesday with Hi-Y. The boys are given helpful and inspiring talks and films on the rules of various sports.

TRIPLE TRIO

During the 1959-1960 school year the Ninth Grade Girls' Triple Trio sang four times, at two school concerts and two teachers' dinners. It met on Thursday noons in Room 14; and even though the girls were a little pressed for time before performances, there was a lot of fun and horseplay. The members were: Mary Ellen Bragonier, Margaret Buchholtz, Jane Coletti, Janice Curry, Charlotte Jones, Pat McCowen, Karen Nicky, Carol Rouze, and Sally Schworm, with Barbara Picken as accompanist. Mrs. Romberg was the director. By the end of the year she had them sounding like professionals.

CHORUS

When a bunch of 9th grade girls and about 8 ninth grade boys come tumbling down the stairs (during fifth period on Friday) you assume that they are going to chorus. These are the kids who elected at the beginning of the year to take chorus under Mrs. Romberg, and have never regretted it.

Maybe some of you wonder what's so great about singing for 55 minutes straight. Fortunately, chorus isn't all singing. Some of us have mastered the art of talking and singing all at the same time.

Many times we listen to records such as "Carousel", "The West Side Story", and "A Child's Garden of Freeburg."

We sang at the musical programs put on by the school at Christmas and in March.

During the 1952-1953 school year the Ninth Grade Girls' Triple Trio sang four times, at two school concerts and two teachers' dinners. It met on Thursday noon in Room 14; and even though the girls were a little pressed for time before performances, there was a lot of fun and horsingplay. The members were: Mary Ellen Hargreaves, Margaret Buchholz, Jane Collett, Janice Gurry, Charlotte Jones, Pat McGowan, Karen Wiley, Carol House, and Sally Schorn, with Barbara taken as accompanist. Mrs. Romberg was the director. By the end of the year she had them sounding like professionals.

BOY'S GLEE CLUB

Every Wednesday noon the future Julius Larossa's of America hold meetings just after lunch for practices which have raised a good deal of complaints lately. These 7th, 8th, and 9th grade boys sing various types of music, but this doesn't seem to be a very good solution to the problem. Most of the pieces are 3 or 4 part harmonies; the rest haven't been classified yet.

Mrs. Romberg, the poor woman who bears the burden of developing voices out of noises, led us twice this year, at the Christmas Concert and the Spring Night of Music, in behalf of the school. We haven't learned our lesson yet, so we'll probably keep trying to sing until school's out.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB

Every Tuesday noon a group of about 45 girls eat lunch at school, then drifts slowly into room 14, where Mrs. Romberg (director) and Miss Miller (accompanist) are waiting. After a mad scramble for desks and chairs, the talking begins in earnest. By 12:25, however, we are singing. We learn such songs as "Green Cathedral", "Merry-Go-Round", and "Wedding of the Painted Doll". This year we sang at the Christmas Program and the Spring Music Program.

ORCHESTRA

Every Tuesday and Friday a rehearsal is held of the Great Renowned Orchestra of Welch Junior High. During this lively session such classical compositions as "Mother Goose Hoedown" and "Toy Train" are played. Mrs. Johnson, the director, patiently works these out until they almost sound like music.

LIBRARY CLUB

Library Club is sponsored by Mrs. Sprague, who selected volunteers for members. This aspect undoubtedly added a romantic touch to being a member and made those selected feel quite important.

We learned how a library is run, generally. Also, we sent books in to be rebound and learned how to file and care for books. We carried the burden of decorating the bulletin boards, but we received a great deal of help from the students. The boys especially enjoyed taking the covers off old books and putting new covers on them. But on the whole Library Club is really interesting for anyone who is interested in books and how to care for them.

PEP CLUB

Just like the High School, Welch has a Pep Club. Miss Ver Hoef was the sponsor, and we met in room 22, which is important to remember ten years from now when we all look back in the year book. The officers were: Carol Rouze, Pres.; Sue Caddock, V. Pres.; Mary Ellen Bragonier, Sec'y; Karen Nordin, Treas.; Rhea Barron, Publ. Chrm.; Tija Spicsberg, Project Chrm. A club must have officers, for they are usually the only people who do anything. About fifteen ninth grade girls were members, and from these some made the hoops to open school games, sold candy to keep the fans in shape, and added their support to the tireless cheering section. To get in the spirit of the thing, Mr. Trunnell taught us how to play football like experts.

CHEER SQUAD

At the end of eighth grade every interested girl tried out for one of the six prestige positions on the next year's ninth grade cheer squad. Everyone got the thrilling privilege of watching the tryouts and voting for his six favorites. As a result, Marg Buchholtz, Charlotte Jones, Gloria Hatasaki, Sally Schworn, Barb Picken and Jane Coletti were chosen. They soon discovered that uniforms were necessary, so the first thing they did upon entering ninth grade was to buy uniforms and soak their parents for the bill. But it was well worth it. The beautiful white sweaters with red W's and the red skirts really inspired the students.

Practices on Tuesdays and Thursdays under "Tarzan" Ver Hoef sometimes left the girls feeling as though they had fallen over Niagara Falls in a picnic basket, but by Friday they always had enough energy to direct ten minutes of jumping and screaming in an almost organized fashion. These little episodes were appropriately called "Pep Assemblies". We are all grateful to these six girls who somehow managed to get to all of the games and do a great job of cheering, and we want them to know that we appreciate their hard work.

COURTESY COMMITTEE

When they asked me to be on the Welch Courtesy Committee, I told them where to get off. I mean, the last time I heard the word "courtesy", somebody lost her teeth. Well, I've been watching Bandstand regularly, so I wore a suit, like those cats, the first day to school. I then went along with the gag. They looked at me kinda funny, but when the suit caught their eyes they smiled and forgot about my beard. Pretty soon I figured out a mistake had been made in the files. But it wasn't bad at all. I soon found out I was on fire squad, too. I got to "keep the peace" in Welch automatically. What a racket! Now I could push little kids around even when people were looking. The lunch money shakedown was a little harder, but the confusion in the firedrills played right into my hands. Well, they had to cut the fire squad bit out of this committee second semester, and I fell in with the turnover, but I had a real blast.

ART CLUB

Art club is one place where 8th and 9th graders, who want to draw and paint without having to be graded on their masterpieces, can go after school. Not only are there always plenty of art material and models on hand; refreshments are also served whenever someone remembers to bring them. During the year we worked with charcoal, India ink, water colors, pencil, crayon, and other media. Still lifes, portraits, landscapes, and modern designs flowed (?) from our drawing utensils onto our smudged and grimy papers. The members became accustomed to John Brown's easel in the middle of the floor and to Tove and Jan's indoor football games. Miss Vandehaar stood this very well and even managed to teach us much more in art club than we expected to learn.

BAND

At 8 o'clock on Monday morning, and at 7:40 on Wednesday morning each week, the musical-minded seventh, eighth, and ninth graders who play band instruments gather together sleepily in the gym. Here, after putting together chairs, music stands and instruments, they play some music under the direction of Mrs. Johnson for the time they have left. They have played this year at the Christmas program and at the Spring Concert.

SEVENTH GRADE

On the first day of school we seventh graders looked in wonder at the eighth and ninth graders rushing by us in the halls. Could they actually know where they were going and why they were going there? Impossible!

We learned that our grade was divided into four groups and each had a home base to which we reported before school, at noon and after school. That wasn't too hard to understand; but the fact that we had to go to a different room between classes, and that we had only two minutes to do this in, was quite scary. In each class we encountered a new teacher, book, and seating arrangement. After a few days, however, it was all old stuff to us.

Then one day we found out that we were invited to the "Kick-off Dance"! We were awfully busy learning how to dance, buying new clothes, and trying to figure out who would and wouldn't dance with us. But we had loads of fun, and after that the dances were something to look forward to. Most of us liked the "Box Social" the best. It was hard to believe that our own gym could look so colorful and gay!

The sports' program was also something new. While the boys pretended to hate long, after school practices, the girls pretended to hate getting up early on Saturday mornings to go to the games. But most of us really loved every minute of it.

By now we know pretty well how things are run; and we can't wait until next year, when we won't be the "little kids" anymore!

EIGHTH GRADE

Here we are, the brains of the future, being molded and modeled by the diligent faculty of Welch.

This year has been far from dull with many activities in which the eighth grade has participated.

Many eighth grade boys went out for sports, which consisted of a year round schedule of seasonal activities; football, basketball, track, baseball and golf.

The annual parties were great successes with everyone eligible turning out. Besides the Kick-Off dance, the Christmas Party and the Box Social, the eighth grade had two parties, November 20 and March 18.

Orchestra, band, glee club and chorus were greatly helped by the masterful vocal and instrumental tones of the eighth grade.

The results of the Christmas Clothing and Food Drive, the Mary Greeley Hospital Fund (two thirds done) and the Polio Drive were admirable in that every eighth grader did his part and did it well!

The two organizations which I believe deserve the most praise are Hi-Y and Girl Reserves for their fine activities during the year. We all look forward to them and appreciate the leaders' work.

As we bring the year to a close we hope we haven't aged our teachers too much in their frustrating struggle to teach us the 3 R's or is it 4 R's. Can't seem to get it clear.

S P O R T S

FOOTBALL

Welch had a fairly good season this year. The boys wanted to really get out and win this year, and everyone did his part. Our schedule went as follows:

Welch - 0	-	Nevada - 14	Welch - 6	-	Nevada - 24
Welch - 0	-	Webster City - 6	Welch - 36	-	Ballard - 6

The ninth graders participating were:

David French, C.	Jeff Peterson, E.
Tom Grabau, Q.B.	Phil Scholl, G.
Joe Harris, T.	Randy Smith, Q.B.
Ken Lint, G.	Wayne Thorson, T.
Butch Mickelson, E.	Jim Trow, H.B.
Terry Morrison, W.B.

Unvortunately Butch broke his ankle and was not able to play, but he gave the team support at games by being our manager. Jim Trow was elected captain for the season.

BASKETBALL

Welch had a successful basketball season this year, winning four and losing four. Our boys had the spark and the will to win. I think one of the reasons we won all our four home games was the support of the student body.

Our schedule was:

Welch - 63	Lincoln - 30	Welch - 60	Boone - 33
Welch - 30	Anson - 40	Welch - 30	Nevada - 38
Welch - 39	Nevada - 40	Welch - 44	Boone - 45
Welch - 46	Webster City - 40	Welch - 35	Lincoln - 32

Ninth graders participating were:

David French, F.	Jeff Peterson, G.
Tom Grabau, G.	Phil Scholl, F.
Jack Lasche, G.	Curt Siemers, F.
Butch Mickelson, F.	Wayne Thorson, G.
Terry Morrison, G.	Jim Trow, F.
Bill Nelson, G.

Butch Mickelson was elected captain for the season.

GOLF

The Hi-Y is sponsoring the golf tournament again this year and the ninth graders participating are: Bob Billings and Nicky Nichols.

BASEBALL and TRACK

The spring sport season got under way later than usual this year because of the weather. The team worked out indoors in the gym for the first two weeks of the season. Everyone was anxiously awaiting the spring thaw so they could get out doors.

After the team went outdoors, four teams were chosen. Boys with ability, leadership, and perserverence were chosen as captains by the coaches. The captains were Tom Grabau, Terry Morrison, Jeff Peterson, Jim Trow, Randy Smith, Tom Landsberg, Bill Duke, and Chris Lester. These four teams compete in conditioning events as the 440, 220, 50 yard dash, 880, and two minute run.

There are fourteen ninth grade boys out for track and seven out for baseball. This is a relatively small portion of the team. However, considering the small number of boys in the ninth grade, it is a good turnout.

In spite of our late start we must meet the scheduled teams. Our time of getting outdoors and our first track meet left little time for preparing for the meet. Our schedule is as follows:

April 23	Welch - Nevada at Welch
May 7	Invitational Meet at high school
May 14	Quadrangle at high school

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL

There are eight intramural teams at Welch, each having a ninth grade captain. Captains are Randy Smith, John Dunlap, Garland Clapp, Hamp Tisdale, Joe Harris, Terry Cook, Bob Billings, and Jan DeYoung. Other ninth grade participants are Kenneth Lint, John Preston, Clint Marken, and Dick Schank. Games are held on Monday and Friday evenings in the gym. In each game three quarters are played half-court, and one quarter full-court. Mr. Fitzgerald and Mr. Trunnell are the coaches and referees. Very good ones, too! Hamp Tisdale's team is in first place at the time of publication. The other members are John Foreman, John Ragsdale, Steve Heady, Dennis Kelso, Steve Brown, and Dean Barnes. There is quite a bit of enthusiasm by participants of this program. It should be a very successful program in future years.

OUR HISTORIES -

CRAWFORD HISTORY

The Crawford kindergarten class started the year out with a bang by hopping a train to Nevada. But after that we settled down to a steady routine of block building and sleeping on our little rugs.

In first grade we went through two teachers. Once our poor teacher nearly had heart failure when Sally played possum after a nap and didn't come to until someone tickled her.

In second grade we gained Carol Rouze, Pat McCowen, and Sue Ludwig. Richard often entertained us by yelling at Miss Dana and by pushing desks over. That year Miss Sawyer left, and a very handsome young man named Bill Ellett took her place as principal.

In third grade Miss Myers helped us make candles, apple sauce, and mush. Besides this some rivalry broke out among the girls when Sue Ludwig, Karen Nordin, Rhea Baron, Carolyn Thompson and Jane Willis organized the "Polly Pigtails Club". Again Richard was stepping on the teachers toes and John R. became quite good at slipping thumb tacks onto people's chairs just as they sat down.

In fourth grade Dick Schank came to break the monotony. Our wonderful teacher, Miss Abbas, developed a quite convincing deadpan during the year's course.

In fifth grade some boy-girl interest began to develop. We got a lot of kicks out of Carol's spin-the-bottle parties. At last our chief diversion switched from girls-chase-boys to boys-chase-girls, even though the teachers didn't quite approve. While Miss Garlock and Dick carried on a sort of running feud, Dickie Johnson joined us from Bolivia, Tija Spicberg sidled shyly in from Sweden and Margie Anderson bounced over from Deerfield, Illinois. Dickie was probably the biggest flirt ever to enter Welch and Tija taught us all to play leap frog.

But sixth grade was the real ultimate! We were big patrols who could boss the "little kids" around. The boys no longer just chased the girls, they beat them up as well. By the end of the year, Mr. Ellett was quite willing to send us on to Welch.

In fourth grade Dick Schenk came to break the monotony. Our wonderful teacher, Miss Adams, developed a quite convincing deadpan during the year's course.

EDWARDS HISTORY

In the year 1953 the new Edwards School was completed. A few of the more fortunate ones in the Welch first grade made Edwards their new home. We started out in second grade with Miss Jones. Miss Jones was the horror of most of the second graders. When we were caught talking, as Bill Nelson often was, our mouths were hastily taped with adhesive. At the opportune moment, when the tape had reached the height of its sticking stage, it was quickly jerked off. Poor Miss Jones couldn't apparently put up with another group of second graders, as she quickly departed for New Mexico.

Third and fourth grades were spent playing horses. We were pleased to have such mature boys, as they had the sense to chase the girls. Poor Bill! Again he was the spotlight of fate. In fourth grade he was careless enough to step into the path of a falling book shelf. Bill was then the proud owner of a cast for the next few months.

Fifth grade was a memorable year. Paper mache animals dominated most of our spare time. Butch Mickelson and Phil Scholl made a 7 foot alligator which they appropriately named "Al". The highlight of our fifth grade year was our trip to Des Moines. This trip was made with our upper classmen, the sixth graders. Another specialty of our fifth grade class was Marcio, a new boy from Brazil. He was the kind of boy any love sick fifth grade girl would fall for. At the age of 10 he had already killed a mountain lion with his bare hands. S-W-O-O-N!!

Sixth grade was a new experience. We were all the proud owners of patrol badges; and we were on duty, rain or shine. David Gjertson had the first of our boy-girl parties, which was a tremendous success. The boys all enjoyed their comics while the girls did all the dancing. Miss George became engaged during the course of the year so after our class picnic, in the woods at Sunset Rock, we gave a shower for her. I'm sure we all hated to leave Edwards and especially our dear principal, Mr. "Elmer" Aurand.

W E L C H   H I S T O R Y

The class of "Forever Welchites" started out with a bang!

During the course of the kindergarten year, two teachers left our midst. No one noticed, however, as our young minds were occupied with playing house and drawing.

First grade was a thrill! We learned to read, and write, and further extended our growing knowledge with the addition of arithmetic. Miss Foster's class made a paper mache statue of Santa Claus. We got our pictures in the paper, too!

Second grade was an advanced study of first grade. Our class was only one room since some of the lucky kids had gone to Edwards.

In third grade we turned musical. The cast for our operetta was chosen from the third grade class by Miss Martinson, our music teacher. The show was presented for the P.T.A. WHAT TALENT WE POSSESSED! In case anyone is wondering, Margaret Buchholtz still wears the mustard seed necklace Jim Trow gave her in the heart of their 3rd grade romance.

We finally came to in fourth grade -- the girls noticed that boys were also inhabitants of our world, and the boys realized that girls were present also. Music class was a maize of hands -- the girls spend their time waving at the boys, and the boys waved at the girls across the room. Poor teacher! Our class talent showed up again. This time the boys formed a barbershop quartet. Jeff Peterson, Terry Morrison, Tom Grabau and Tommy Van Scoy sang "Down by the Old Mill Stream" Lovely! The only trouble was the shaving cream. It kept getting in the eyes of the poor victims.

Movies! Movies! Movies! This was the main topic of fifth grade. Yes, Mrs. Pammel got us a movie almost every week. The dark gave us good experience! (HA) Also, we wrote stories to be read on the radio.

Doll week, baton week, cheerleading week, baseball week, etc. This was a typical schedule for a month of sixth grade. Yes, dolls in sixth grade! (disgusting). You noticed I mentioned baseball. The boys chose about ten girls whom they wished to let play. (very exclusive). Safety Patrol was the biggest responsibility placed on our shoulders, but it was excellently supervised by Mrs. Waggle.

Well, the next three years were glorious ones. Junior High! They went so fast we hardly knew they were here! Well, off to High School!

In third grade we turned musical. The cast for our operetta was chosen from the third grade class by Miss Martinson, our music teacher. The show was presented for the P.T.A. WHAT TALENT WE POSSESSED! In case anyone is wondering, Margaret Buchholz still wears the mustard seed necklace Jim Trow gave her in the heart of their 3rd grade romance.

We finally came to in fourth grade -- the girls noticed that boys were also inhabitants of our world, and the boys realized that girls were present also. Music class was a maze of hands -- the girls spent their time waving at the boys, and the boys waved at the girls across the room. Poor teacher! Our class talent showed up again. This time the boys formed a barber shop quartet. Jeff Peterson, Terry Morrison, Tom Grabau and Tommy Van Scoy sang "Down by the Old Mill Stream" lovely! The only trouble was the shaving cream. It kept getting in the eyes of the poor victims.

Movies! Movies! Movies! This was the main topic of fifth grade. Yes, Mrs. Fammel got us a movie almost every week. The dark gave us good experiences! (HA) Also, we wrote stories to be read on the radio.

Doll week, baton week, cheerleading week, baseball week, etc. This was a typical schedule for a month of sixth grade. Yes, dolls in sixth grade! (disgusting). You noticed I mentioned baseball. The boys chose about ten girls whom they wished to let play. (very exclusive). Safety Patrol was the biggest responsibility placed on our shoulders, but it was excellently supervised by Mrs. Waggle.

Well, the next three years were glorious ones. Junior High! They went so fast we hardly knew they were here! Well, off to High School!
